1.The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2.Claims 21-22, 24-26, 28-36 and 38-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roberts et al. (5,987,688) in view of Japanese reference (10-286122) as set forth in the previous Office action.

3.Applicant's arguments filed May 26, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that no statement is made in Roberts et al. ('688) concerning a three layer structure. But it is the combination of the '688 reference and the Japanese reference which is relied upon to produce the three-layer structure. Applicant also argues that the '688 reference does not indicate that the jacket is in a liquid or viscous phase. This is not persuasive because the claims, as amended require that the intermediate layer is "plastically deformable in liquid or viscous phase" and it is submitted that the thermoplastic elastomer sheath 30 disclosed by the '688 reference meets this requirement.

Applicant similarly argues that the Japanese reference does not envision a three layer structure but such is taught by the combination of Roberts et al. and the Japanese reference. Applicant also argues that the Japanese reference does not indicate how the stiffening wire is introduced into the bristle. This is also not persuasive because the claims require that pre-tensioned continuous material be at least partially embedded into the plastically deformable intermediate layer and the Japanese reference teaches that the wire 2 is "bury-fixed" (i.e. at least partially embedded) on the side face of material 1, which is nylon. Thus the teaching by the Japanese reference of having a wire "bury-fixed" results in the instant claims being readable on the combination of prior art relied upon.

Applicant further argues that the prior art relied upon provides no motivation for the three layer structure as recited, but it is still the examiner's position that such motivation is provided by the teachings of the Japanese reference which produces bristles which are less likely to fall down and bend.

4.THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
